Assessment Figures for 1909.

We are indebted to county assessor C. E. Jarvis for the synopsis of the county assessment roll for the current year. By townships the figures foot up as follows:

Township 1 (outside city)	$1,348,115

This is $12,165 less than the assessment roll of 1908. The decrease is on personal property, particularly cattle, there having been a material falling off as compared with the number listed last year.

SUICIDE OR MURDER

Found Dead on Butte Mountain

Yesterday at 5 o'clock in the morning a party of about a dozen concluded to spend the day on the top of Butte mountain. When near the top Mark Eudey detected the odor of some dead animal, and together with E Delahide started out to discover the source. At a point close to the top and about 25 feet from the trail they discovered the remains of a man in a thick clump of bushes, in an advanced state of decomposition. Mr H. N. Mason, one of the party, immediately came to town to notify the officials. As soon as possible the district attorney, coroner and others went out to look into the case. The dead man was lying face down, near the top, and in a thicket away from the trail. Close by his side was a pistol with one chamber discharged. He was well dressed, in a dark suit and soft hat. A nickel watch and chain was on the body, and $230 silver in his pocket. He was a man of about 135 pounds, but decomposition had destroyed all featural marks. About 15 feet away a fire had existed, and the remains of a silk necktie was found. A piece had been cut out of his hat, as if to destroy all marks of identification, but the hat band bore the name of "Goldstein Oroville." It is thought the man had been dead for two weeks. On June 23, C. P. Vicini, who owns the land, says he saw a tall man descending the mountain. It was not the deceased. He was a stranger. An autopsy was held this morning, and a coroner's jury will investigate as soon as possible.

Report of Health Officer.

The county health officer visited a family at Willow Springs where a child had died of diphtheria, placed a guard on duty and ordered the place fumigated. Ione and Plymouth were visited to investigate the sanitary conditions of those places.

THE NATIONAL ANNIVERSARY.

There is a uniqueness in the celebration of the anniversary of the birth of the United States as an independent nation. There is nothing peculiar about the idea of celebrating a birthday anniversary. That has been a custom handed down from earliest ages. Individuals in all civilized countries recognize in some form the annual recurrence of the birthday anniversary. It brings to memory the fact of the commencement of a separate existence, and why should it not be fittingly observed. The Christmas festivities started in the early years of Christendom, are simply the manifestation of this spirit that demands the recognition of birthday. In that holiday is commemorated the birth of a particular form of religion—Christianity—and also the birth of its founder—Jesus Christ. It is a fact, however, that few if any of the nations of the old world have any holiday corresponding to the fourth of July in America. This is easily accounted for in the fact that the date of the commencement of national life is lost in the mists of unrecorded history. It runs back into barbaric times, and was lost in the slow process of emergence into settled and civilized conditions. It does not argue from this that these peoples are less appreciative in national affairs than citizens of the United States. The conditions under which the national life began are different. In the one case the event is enveloped in tradition and untraceable; in the other it stands out clearly defined as part and parcel of recent history, and marking one of the most momentous epochs in the annals of the world. Probably in every nation of the western hemisphere, where the circumstances surrounding the birth of nationality are equally well known, there is a day set apart for general jubilation and festivity, the same as in the United States.

Little did the founders of this republic dream of the possibilities in store for the then infant nation. In a little more than a century—a mere span in the life of a nation—it has become the most populous and powerful government on earth. There is nothing in all history that will compare with the rapid march of the United States from a small beginning to the foremost rank among world powers.

It is sometimes said that the celebration of independence day follows the spirit of commercialism rather than of the stern patriotism that alone instituted it and characterized its observance in earlier times. We do not agree, in spite of the admitted commercial aspect, that there is any decay of the study patriotism that prevailed in revolutionary or civil war times. Citizens generally are as proud of their country today—of its past and present—as at any previous period. If occasion demanded the spirit of heroism and self-sacrifice would be just as conspicuous today in defense of national life or honor as they have been in times past. It is no sign of retrogression that in these days of commercial rivalry we are as anxiously competing for trade as any of the nations. Indeed it might be regarded as ominous if were otherwise.

A MISSTATEMENT.

The Angels Record gravely informs its readers that the opposition in Amador county to the purchase of the Big Bar bridge seems to be confined to the Ledger office, and adds as a clincher that the supervisors of the two counties may be depended upon to do the right thing in the matter. The Record man probably knows as much or as little about the public sentiment in Amador county as the Ledger man does concerning Calaveras county. The Ledger simply voices the honest opinion of its editor on public questions, and is willing to let it go at that. The Ledger is not, and never has been against the acquisition of Big Bar bridge by the joint action of the two counties. On the contrary, we favor its purchase at the appraised value, if that course is absolutely necessary to public ownership and the abolition of tolls thereon. But we think, as a matter of ordinary business prudence it devolves upon the supervisors to first have the question of title decisively settled before authorizing the payment of the purchase money. In private affairs it is customary to get an abstract of title preliminary to the purchase of real property. If the title is found to be faulty that is usually deemed sufficient grounds for calling the deal off. Why should not the same policy be followed in regard to Big Bar bridge. It is surely the safer course to find out beforehand whether or not the reputed owner has anything to sell. That is the position of the Ledger on this bridge proposition.

Do Your Clothes Fit?

Watch the men as they walk along the street, some catch your attention, some don't. It's all the way a suit fits. A well fitted garment always attracts attention. It isn't easy to fit a man, because most men are built differently. It takes skill to do it. When men's clothes don't fit the idea is conveyed that somebody is trying to save money in the wrong place. My clothes fit in every sense of the word. Talent is needed in every line. There is smartness, elegance and grace in every movement. A good suit is always an investment, not an expense. Try Wm. Ross, the tailor. Formerly Max Ladar's, Jackson, Cal.

CLEVER ART FORGERS

They Flood the Markets Abroad With Their Wares.

PARIS THE CLEARING HOUSE.

The French Capital is the Chief Mart For the Disposal of Imitation Antiques—Italy Leads in the Production of the Spurious Articles.

Italy has always been the classic soil for fabrications, but in some departments Holland and Paris run her close. Vienna has a specialty for rock crystal and thirteenth century gold work, Florence and Lucca for fourteenth century armor, London imitates the pate tendre of Sevres, Constantinople makes oriental weapons, Madrid Damascus swords, Dresden sculptured ivories, Aix-la-Chapelle pewter plate, Berlin Roman potteries, Amsterdam wrought iron, Rotterdam Indian porcelain, Odessa tiaras and antique jewelry, while Paris is the chief mart and clearing house for all these products.

Italian bronze statuettes, now so much sought, are turned out with dexterity and taste in Tuscany. It is said that it was from one of these foundries there issued the group of virtue oppressing vice, assigned to Gian Bologna, which is now the choice treasure of a celebrated French collection. Switzerland makes a specialty of Louis XV. repousse work.

As for renaissance and mediaeval jewelry, hardly a bit is real except what is in museums. It is not to be bought. In the disturbed epochs that followed the renaissance precious stones were broken from their settings and sold to meet urgent needs. The same need for extreme diffidence applies to the pretty bibelots of the eighteenth century, watches, chateaux, bonbonnières. Of modern fabrication, too, is the enameled jewelry of the sixteenth century. Vienna turns it out to perfection. And so cunning are the makers that, for example, they take care that the ring on which a locket is suspended should show signs of friction, well aware that the buyer who thinks himself cute will look for this indication.

As for the peasant jewelry, now so much bought and sought in Florence on the old bridge and elsewhere, the genuine is long ago exhausted, for, after all, peasants own but a limited stock. It all consists of clever copies or more often tasteful combinations of old designs. The stones, too, despite their fine designations, are rarely anything else but those marvelously clever tinted rock crystals so ingeniously made in Switzerland and sold by the ton if desired.

Venice is the great depot for ebony inlaid with ivory, and cabinets incrustated with tortoise shell, once its glory and now in their decadence, are still the joy of traveling Americans on the lookout for bargains. Buy if the object pleases you, but do not when you pay your dollars imagine you are exchanging new lamps for old. As for old clocks, grandfather or other, there is not one genuine in a hundred. Ware ivories! They are generally bone or, worse still, celluloid aged by the help of tobacco or of that invaluable hand-aid, kerosene.

Nor does even glass defy the artificer. In the Museum of St. Germain can be seen Roman goblets, their outside incrustated with dirt, whose iridescence has been obtained by fish scales fixed upon their surface. Sometimes real bits of iridescent glass film are transferred upon a modern framework. Cologne turns out lacrymatory vases by the gross, not even troubling to copy the old shapes, but using the long narrow bottles in which cheap sweets are sold. These are buried in dung after being smeared with some concoction of which the secret is guarded, and in a little time they issue from retirement patinated and iridescent. Old German and Bohemian glass is also excellently copied in Hamburg and Paris. Venice, too, has not forgotten its traditions and turns out its own old wares.

Sevres and Dresden innocently helped the counterfeit by selling their not yet decorated pieces, if imperfect, for a trifle. On this genuine ground the forger worked with ease. This traffic has been stopped. Still the forger knows no obstacles or overcomes them, and false Sevres and Dresden are supplied by all dealers, and the purchaser rarely has the minute knowledge that will save him. In the eighteenth century oriental porcelain were openly made in England and Holland and sent to China for decoration, when they returned as real China porcelain, or the reverse process obtained. The porcelain was made in China and decorated in what was presumed to be the Chinese style in Europe. Paris at the present moment makes and exports old China porcelain, and many a tourist who buys a find at Hongkong or Shanghai merely brings back coals to Newcastle. Rhodian plates are made near Paris in absolute perfection. Except as a matter of sentiment there is no need to seek the old. Be cautious, too, in buying Greco-Roman pottery. It is mostly made at Naples.

Most of the genuine things were snatched up long ago or else are owned by museums or by the heirs of those for whom they were made and who do not need to part with them.—London National Review.

Amador County Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 548 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley, foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now taking gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 3000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-ore extends to a much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 400 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers to-day one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or talc—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not excel, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive: also all kinds of vegetable are raised where irrigation is practicable along the numerous water courses. Further up in the mountains, at an altitude of 2000 to 2500 feet, the soil is admirably adapted for apples and potatoes. A ready market for many times the quantity now raised of these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are becoming important industries, both the grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the lowland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for a large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 12000. Three fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 2500 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Drytown, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 10000 inhabitants.

The community is law abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,800,793, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

The Southern Pacific has a branch railroad running to Ione. From this point the Ione and Eastern railroad extends 14 miles further to the mining section.

The various religious denominations and fraternal organizations are well represented.

The power plant of the Standard Electric Co.—one of the largest in the world—is located four miles from Jackson.

GLOBE SIGHTS

A woman married to a good fellow has a hard time.

Nothing pleases a farmer more than to "call" a town man's bluff.

A mean husband is doubly mean if he is cross to his wife in public.

The little mean tricks cause more trouble in the world than big ones.

A man will promise any favor that is not to be granted until next year. What has become of the old fashioned, boy who ate cherries, seeds, and all.

"The tariff is killing us," said a man to-day, as he wasted 80 cents on a slot machine.

The fall of a king of a foreign country is not as important as the fall of a neighbor.

Married men complain that they are not appreciated as much as husbands as they were as lovers.

Don't get to know people too well. If you do, the chances are that you'll begin quarreling with them.

Hot weather will not hurt any man who does not over-work or over-indulge; and no man will overwork.

A woman's heart never really flutters with joy until her pastor tells her he has missed seeing her at church.

The more husbands a woman has had, the less bones she makes about packing up and leaving one of them.

Perhaps one reason it is easier for the old to be philosophical is that they don't have picnics spoiled by rain.

If a man looks innocently up into a cherry tree, and sees a girl there, is an apology or a compliment due from him.

The girls should take care: A lot of the young boys who pose as candy kids develop later in life into lemon drops.

Abusing the prosperous in order to curry the favor of the envious, is an old game that still works better than it should.

A boy soon finds out that if the visitor says a long grace at the table, he must look to his hungry father for sympathy.

Some young men in the country never regard circus day as successful unless they have a fight with a circus man.

Another man to-day fully made up his mind to have a fight, but at last accounts his friends were successfully holding him.

You may not be at home when opportunity calls, but you are pretty sure to be there if the caller is an agent or "company."

The trouble with a woman believing anything her husband tells her, is that in a very short time he begins to tell her anything.

When a young man calls on a girl, and she says she is afraid she will die an old maid, is that equal to her saying he can never have her.

There are only two ways for a married man to be gallant: Give his wife the rocking chair, and never express a regret that he didn't stay single.

If a woman has to have her cook stolen away, she would rather have a man steal her, and marry her, than to have her taken by another woman.

This is the season of the year when poets and artists should immortalize the woman's hand that is stained and crinkled by strawberry and cherry juice.

When an agent walks into your office you may safely depend upon this: His purpose is to benefit himself; he doesn't care anything about your interests.

If a preacher's wife in the privacy of her own family, took the chicken breast and gave her husband the back, would she be turned out of the church if it became known?

It is not a pleasant thought for the men, but widows seem to jog along very comfortably; no widow looks as though she had spoiled her complexion by crying all night.

If another man gets a higher salary than you receive, it is probably because he is worth more. Employers do not pick out men to pay good wages to because they have curly hair.

This is the season of the year when a boy, if he can induce his mother to pay $3 for buggy hire, will go out to the woods and gather her a quart of wild gooseberries that won't cost her a cent.

For years there has been a newspaper war on house flies and weeds, but we do not see much decrease. Do you? If the war on flies and weeds keeps up people will come to almost admire them.

We say this is as wise as anything ever said by Carlyle, or Emerson, or Tolstoy, or Marcus Aurelius, and it was written by a modest country editor in Kansas: "Whenever the dogs get too thick in a town, a mad dog story is started on them."

A Night Rider's Raid

The worst night riders are calomel orotone oil or aloe pills. They raid your bed to rob you of rest. Not so with Dr. King's New Life Pills. They never distress or inconvenience, but always cleanse the system, curing colds, headache, constipation, malaria, 25c at Spagnoli's Drug Store.

IN HIGH ALTITUDES.

The Most Common Ways in Which the Heart is Affected.

Dr. I. N. Hall, writing in the American Journal of the Medical Sciences, says that the dangers to the heart in high altitudes are the same as in other places, but are greatly exaggerated in some directions. The troubles most common and serious, he says, relate to inflammation of the heart muscle, hardening of the arteries and dilation of the heart.

The principle applied is this: The heart and lungs have an increase of functional work with each added degree of elevation and the consequent decrease in atmospheric pressure. To meet the increased demand on the circulation the heart must enlarge if the usual amount of exercise is taken. It is not unusual for acute dilation of the heart to occur after slight effort on the part of those whose arteries have begun to harden and who long have been accustomed to atmospheric pressure at the sea level. The trouble with those who suffer in high altitude, the writer declares, is that they try to do too much at first when they feel invigorated by the bracing atmosphere.

Dr. Hall adds that even an ascent in a railway train may be fatal to those who have but a narrow margin of heart strength, or the slightest exertion at such a time may produce angina pectoris. The average case of well compensated valvular disease will do as well at a high altitude as anywhere else if the patient observes proper precautions. In such a climate he is less susceptible to acute rheumatism.

A LUCKY SHOT.

Exciting Incident of a Lion Hunt in East Africa.

In the Wide World Magazine there is an exciting account of a lion hunt in British East Africa. The party consisted of Walter Cooper, Captain H. and his sister. The young lady captured four lions, while the men slew five between them. The tenth lion was killed through its desire to capture a native carrier who, realizing that things were becoming too warm for him, had bolted. The following is the account of the misfortune which befell the lion through his attempt to stay the haste of the native:

The lioness, attracted by the sight of the fleeing man, swerved off suddenly and made after the fugitive. The man had not more than twenty yards start, and the great brute rapidly overtook him. Miss H. fired again, and we men both fired as well, but we were not near enough to make a good running shot. The wretched man, with a courage born of desperation, turned at the last moment and hit at the lioness with his rifle. The blow fell a bit short, and the enraged brute, snapping at what came nearest, caught the weapon in her mouth at the muzzle. The pace at which she was traveling was so great that Hassan was hurled backward, and in falling his finger caught the triggers, letting off both barrels. By the most extraordinary piece of luck the rifle was pointing straight down the beast's throat at the moment, and down she went, with her head nearly shot away, right on top of him.

Notorious Women Gamblers.

One of the most notorious female gamblers of the eighteenth century was Miss Pelham, the daughter of the English prime minister. She not only ruined herself at cards, but would have beggared her sister Mary as well had not their friends intervened and insisted on the sisters separating. Horace Walpole gives a pitiful account of "poor Miss Pelham sitting up all night at the club without a woman, losing hundreds a night and her temper, beating her head and making a scene before the young men and the waiters." Another writer says that the unhappy woman often played cards with the tears streaming down her cheeks.

Lady Mary Compton, an old maiden lady, a contemporary of Miss Pelham and, like her, addicted to gambling, had the same propensity to tears. When she lost, we are told, she wept bitterly—"not for the loss itself," she was careful to explain, "but for the unkindness of the cards."

A Bank of Brides.

Simla, the summer capital of the Indian empire, is a pretty pine treed place well up in the foothills of the Himalayas. A feature of Simla life is the annual fair held by the native hill people, an attractive item of which is a "bank of brides" in an amphitheater, where sit numbers of young women who thus calmly announce that they are candidates for hymeneal honors. Some of these aspirants to matrimony so patiently awaiting a choosing are quite pretty and have intelligent faces, but those of Mongol caste must needs linger long for a partner if personal beauty enters into the equation.

Love in a Flat.

"May I kiss you?" The girl hastily consulted a document. "You may," she said. "Why did you consult that paper?" "To see if there is anything in our lease prohibiting it."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Nice Discrimination.

"Stop!" cried an author to a maid-servant. "What papers are you burning there?" "It's all right, sir," was the reply. "These are only the old sheets covered with writing. I haven't touched the clean ones!"

Although vanity is supposed to be a feminine trait, one doesn't have to scratch very deep to find it in a man.—Chicago News.

GIFT OF LANGUAGE.

Advantages of the Man Who is Able to Talk Well.

There is no other one thing which enables us to make so good an impression, especially upon those who do not know us thoroughly, as the ability to converse well. A man who can talk well, who has the art of putting things in an attractive way, who can interest others immediately by his power of speech, has a very great advantage over one who may know more than he, but who cannot express himself with ease or eloquence.

You may be a good singer, a fine artist, you may have a great many accomplishments which people occasionally see or enjoy, you may have a very beautiful home and a lot of property which comparatively few people ever know about, but if you are a good converser every one you meet recognizes and appreciates your art. Everybody you converse with feels the influence of your skill and charm.

In other words, there is no accomplishment, no attainment, which you can use so constantly and effectively which will give so much pleasure to your friends as fine conversation. There is no doubt that the gift of language was intended to be a much greater accomplishment than the majority of us have ever made of it.—Orison Swett Marden in Success Magazine.

PAPER AND CANVAS.

An Anecdote of Turner, the Great Landscape Painter.

In a book entitled "Stories of the English Artists" R. Davies and C. Hunt tell an interesting anecdote of Turner, the great landscape painter. He disliked to part with his pictures and when he sold one invariably wore a look of dejection and oppression. If a friend asked him what was the matter he would sorrowfully explain, "I've lost one of my children this week."

Once a rich Birmingham manufacturer, Gillett by name, introduced himself to the painter and stated that he had come to buy.

"Don't want to sell" or some such laconic rebuff was the answer. The manufacturer then drew from his pocket a bundle of banknotes, about £5,000 worth.

"Mere paper," observed Turner, with grim humor, a little softened, however, and evidently enjoying the joke. "To be bartered for mere canvas," replied the persistent Gillett, waving his hand at the "Building of Carthage" and its companions.

This tone of cool depreciation seemed to have a happy effect, and finally Gillett departed with some £5,000 worth of Turner's pictures.

A Strenuous Wooer.

"The Reminiscences of Bismarck" contains an account of his courtship. He was a young Prussian officer when he first met Johanna von Puttkamer, but he made application at once to her father for permission to pay his addresses. Aghast at Bismarck's proposal, the old gentleman did not absolutely decline it. Instead he wrote giving permission to pay a sort of "visit of inspection" at the Puttkamer home. Bismarck hastened to Reinfeld. The whole Puttkamer family was lined up to greet him. The father and mother glared at him solemnly, and Johanna herself stood between them, her eyes cast modestly downward. With the swift, whirlwind decision that scored Bismarck his later political triumphs he carried the situation by storm. Galloping up the driveway, he leaped from his horse, ran forward and flung his arms around Johanna, taking no heed of her scandalized parents and catching her to his breast and covering her blushing face with kisses. After that there could be no talk of "probation" or "waiting." The betrothal was necessarily an accepted fact.

Satisfied Each Side.

Nearer seven feet tall than six was the father of the present earl of Enniskillen. He was a magistrate and a mighty fox hunter. He used to come to the "justice room" ready dressed for hunting quite early in the morning, in order to hear cases before he started off to the meet. His practice was to hear the plaintiff and then horse-whip the defendant, abusing him for behaving in such a blackguardly manner. Then he heard the defendant and afterward horsewhipped the plaintiff. It is said that both parties left the court perfectly satisfied, each saying that the other had been horsewhipped by his honor.—London Graphic.

How He Knew.

"My wife took me to the orchestra concert last night, and I think they played Wagner?" "What makes you think so?" "Why, a big bunch of plaster fell from the ceiling into the middle aisle during the concert, and a man who was sleeping near me woke up and said 'Wagner!'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Got It Free.

A good old preacher who had decided to leave an unremunerative charge, finding it impossible to collect his salary, said in his farewell sermon: "I have little more to add, dear brethren, save this—you were all in favor of free salvation, and the manner in which you have treated me proves that you have got it!"

Would Seem Not.

"In these stories of the middle ages we always read about the hero's good right arm." "Well?" "Was there never a southpaw knight?"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

The right word is always a power and communicates its definiteness to our action.—Elliot.

BIBLE STUDY CONTEST.

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

(Copyright, 1909, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.) July 11th, 1909.

Paul's Second Missionary Journey.—The Philippiian Jailer. Acts xvi:16-40.

Golden Text—Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved. Acts xvi:31.

Verse 16-21—In what class do you place those who profit by the sins of fallen women?

This young woman was possessed with a very clever spirit of evil, an all round spirit of deception, including fortune telling; now wherein did her sin consist, and that of her owners.

Which are the more to be blamed in these days, fortune tellers or their willing dupes.

When bad men are losing the gains of their evil occupation, are they apt to be careful of the truth, when they are after the good men who have destroyed their business? For example the liquor dealers.

Verse 22—What made the multitude so angry at Paul and Silas, and is any reliance ever to be placed upon the excited attitude of a large crowd. Do religious differences still make the people hate one another.

Does worldly gain, to-day play any part in religious intolerance.

Verse 23—Why did God permit such cruelty to his faithful servants.

Why is it that godly people often have to go through very exquisite suffering.

Verse 24—Say why it is possible for any good man in prison, lying upon a raw back, with his feet fast in the stocks, to be as happy as a man in health, and at liberty.

Does a good man's influence cease when he is imprisoned and his limbs are fettered. In looking back over the results of his imprisonment, would Paul and Silas be apt to regret this painful incident.

Verse 25—Is there any circumstance so painful, or disastrous, that prayer and praise cannot turn it into joy and victory.

If we prayed and sang more in our private lives, and in our families, would we have more joy and gladness.

Verse 26—Was this earthquake the result of the prayer of Paul and Silas, or was it a natural event.

Does God to-day work out for his people, practically the same results as are here recorded.

Verse 27, 28—Why did the jailer decide upon suicide, and is such a course ever justifiable.

Verse 29, 30—Was it natural fear or religious conviction, that now operated in the jailer.

What did the jailer desire to be saved from.

Verse 31—What precisely did they mean by believing on the Lord Jesus.

MAY a father or mother believe in Jesus, so as to assure the salvation of their children? (This question is to be answered in writing by members of the club.)

Verse 32—What is "the word of the Lord," and may a person know that word, first hand, who is not personally acquainted with the Lord.

Verse 33, 34—Can the grace of God suddenly turn a cruel and brutal man into a tender-hearted Christian.

Verse 35-40—May we be confident that there will always be a happy ending to all our trials.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENTS

AUKUM.

July 3—Your correspondent has just returned from a trip to the mountains close to Caldor saw mill. The company is cutting the great forest like a mower in a grainfield. They intend to cut 150 million feet of timber this season. When night comes on all the lumber, save alone the sugar pine timber that is put into the dry kiln, as in Diamond. Go into the woods where they are at work and you find the men busy as bees. Several sets of timber fallers are at work felling the trees. Another set is trimming them up. Still another set is cutting them up in varying lengths from 12 to 40 feet.

All day long the bull donkey engine, as it is called, is busy from early morn till night pulling the great logs, no matter how large, up the steep mountain side a quarter of a mile away from the engine. They are backed ready for the log train to load them and taken to the mill. When the bull donkey starts on a long pull the air seems to tremble for 1/4 of a mile. It vibrates and you feel a giving around you made by the mighty force of the engine in its terrific efforts. The ox-train has gone with by gone-days to be replaced by this mighty power of nature. It is only one among the thousand effects of improvement of evolution to continually alter all matters of progress. In a decade we can look back and say, simply this circumstance is a matter of the past—it has been superseded by something greater. Few people realize that these great milling propositions mean in waste—in destruction. While it is true that the lumber is cut and sold for use, it is also true that they are killing the goose that laid the golden egg. In 20 years' time people will begin to realize that the forest like the Indian and buffalo, is passing out of its stage. Superintendent Hasler told me that the company had in all the men employed in and around the mill about 90 men. Rattlesnakes are plentiful in the mountain regions this season. While pulling a piece of bark that laid by an old cedar log on Tuesday last my hand passed within half an inch of a young rattlesnake coiled up. The snake made no effort to bite, such I suppose is fate.

A man that lives up close to Grizzly Flat told me a strange occurrence of two dreams that occurred to Pettus and Seaford, the man that killed and the man that got killed. I give it as it comes to me. Seaford dreamed he had been killed, and told his wife the next morning that he wouldn't live till night.

Sees Mother Grow Young
"It would be hard to overstate the wonderful change in my mother since she began to use Electric Bitters," writes Mrs. W. L. Gilpatrick of Danforth, Me. "Although past 70 she seems really to be growing young again. She suffered untold misery from dyspepsia for 20 years. At last she could neither eat, drink nor sleep. Doctors gave her up and all remedies failed till Electric Bitters worked such wonders for her health. They invigorate all vital organs, cure liver and kidney troubles, induce sleep, impart strength and appetite. Only 50c at Spagnoli's Drug Store."

SHEANDOAN VALLEY.

July 6—Your correspondent's bad cold formed a merger with a severe case of measles, and the unholy combination succeeded in nearly ousting some time, but we are downing ourselves once more. There was but one other case of measles in the valley, our fellow victim also having "doubled" on the malady. Children and all others without previous experience escaped infection.

A few of the Valleyites went to Jackson or Placerville to celebrate the fourth, the valley itself being very quiet except for a few sporadic cases of firecrackers.

A number of the children and grand-children of Mrs Susan Crain gathered at the old home over Sunday. Among them were, Mr and Mrs Wm. Burno of Aukum, Mr and Mrs J F Mooney of Amador, Mr and Mrs J A Crain and children of Fair Play, Mrs Jennie Crain and sons of Plymouth.

J S Davis of Amador came over Saturday night to spend Sunday at his old home.

T D Davis returned from Jackson late Thursday.

The cool weather of the past few days is a matter of wonder and of great comfort for those whose work takes them out under what are ordinarily the burning skies of July. The bulk of the grain crops has been harvested and the promise is for a very good yield.

Orchard work is in full swing. Apricots are somewhat light, but of best quality, and the local demand leaves none to spoil on the growers' hands. Peaches are a fair crop and of very fine quality. Shan.

A MYSTERIOUS FIRE

George Dornan's Dry Goods Stock Destroyed.

A fire that baffles explanation occurred shortly after noon on Monday, in the height of the big celebration. The alarm gave a scare to the multitudes on the street, and especially when the fire was located in the heart of the business section. George Dornan had been doing business in his dry goods store all the morning. He closed his store at 12, after waiting on a customer, and went to lunch. In a quarter of an hour thereafter, Theo Crocker and W. O. Green who were in the rear of the saloon next door enjoying a smoke, noticed a volume of smoke about, too large to be accounted for by their own cigars. Their suspicions were aroused and about the same time the alarm of fire was raised on the street, the smoke coming from the Dornan store. There was an instant rush for the hose carts, and in a few minutes the front door was forced in, for the proprietor had not yet returned from lunch, and a strong stream of water was poured in. The store was full of smoke, and it was impossible to enter, so the water was thrown in from the sidewalk through door and windows, which were also broken to facilitate operations. In a few minutes the fire was conquered. It was confined exclusively to the inside of the store room proper.

As soon as the smoke had sufficiently cleared to enable an examination to be made, it was found that the fire started among the goods in the rear end of the premises. There was a stand a few feet from the wall—not a glass showcase. Upon this was a quantity of goods, and it was completely destroyed, with the goods thereon. The shelves and stock along the back wall were burned to a crisp, and the fire had extended several feet along the side wall on each side. The ceiling throughout the store was scorched. It was decorated with paper for the 4th celebration, and this of course assisted in spreading the flames. When the fireman got to the scene, with Johnny Garbarini in charge, flames were issuing from the trancon over the front door. There was no opportunity to select any particular part of the store for fire fighting. So the main object was to subdue the fire anyway, and prevent its spreading to adjoining premises. And to do thus the water was stream-lined in regardless of what damage might be done to the stock. Some were inclined to object to this, but it was the safest and surest method under the circumstances. Only a frame plastered partition intervened between the Dornan store and Green's saloon, and this fact necessitated radical measures. How the fire started is a mystery. The proprietor had been away less than half an hour. He left at 5 minutes to 12, and at quarter past the alarm was given. It is certain that fire crackers incident to the celebration were not responsible. No one is disposed to attribute it to fireworks. It is suggested that some one may have carelessly left a cigarette or cigar stub in proximity to inflammable material and started it accidentally in that way. The stock in the store is variously estimated at $4000 to $7000. It consisted mainly of men's furnishings, etc. There was an insurance of $6300 on the stock and fixtures. Two policies were taken out about

Better Not Get Dyspepsia

If you can help it. Kodol prevents Dyspepsia, by effectually helping Nature to Relieve Indigestion. But don't trifle with Indigestion.

A great many people who have trifled with indigestion, have been sorry for it—when nervous or chronic dyspepsia resulted, and they have not been able to cure it. Use Kodol and prevent having Dyspepsia.

Everyone is subject to indigestion. Stomach derangement follows stomach abuse, just as naturally and just as surely as a sound and healthy stomach results upon the taking of Kodol.

When you experience sourness of stomach, belching of gas and nauseating fluid, bloated sensation, gnawing pain in the pit of the stomach, heart burn (so-called), diarrhoea, headaches, dullness or chronic tired feeling—you need Kodol. And then the quicker you take Kodol—the better. Eat what you want, let Kodol digest it!

Ordinary pepsin "dyspepsia tablets," physics, etc., are not likely to be of much benefit to you, in digestive ailments. Pepsin is only a partial digester—and physics are not digesters at all.

Kodol is a perfect digester. If you could see Kodol digesting every particle of food, of all kinds, in the glass test-tubes in our laboratories, you would know this just as well as we do.

Nature and Kodol will always cure a sick stomach—but in order to be cured, the stomach must rest. That is what Kodol does—rests the stomach, while the stomach gets well. Just as simple as A, B, C.

ten days prior to the fire; and in the New York Underwriters represented by James Meehan, for $4300, on June 22, and the other in the Royal, W. B. Spagnoli agent, on June 30 for $2000. The entire stock is practically ruined by fire, water, and smoke.

An incident of the Dornan fire is deserving of mention. The baseball game at Zeila park was in full swing when it occurred, and most of the business men were there at the time. The park is half a mile from town. Some one telephoned the news of the fire to the Zeila office. There was no one around, except W. F. Detert, the superintendent. He at once started to the ball ground to apprise those there of the danger. When he reached there, several hundred yards distance, he was pretty well out of breath. He was the first to bring the news of the occurrence, and is entitled to much credit for his forethought and exertion. One half those present left the grounds for town. Indeed, the fire had a damping effect upon the celebration proceeding thereafter. Business men kept watchful and uneasy. There was so much hunting and other material around that would readily take fire. A. F. Sewell, the adjuster, arrived Wednesday night, and is now working on the case.

A GLORIOUS CELEBRATION

The Finest Event Ever Seen in Jackson.

The big celebration has passed into history. It is the universal opinion that it was the most gorgeous pageant, the most successful affair of the kind ever witnessed in Amador county. Jackson outdid itself on that occasion. People from outside and inside alike are loud in their expressions of gratification at the outcome. It was planned on a scale of magnitude never before attempted, and doubts were indulged in for a while that the affair was being overdone. But everything passed off in fine shape. The day was an ideal one for outdoor exercises and the program of attractions was lived up to in every respect. There was no lagging of interest from first to last. Quite a number of side shows helped to enliven the proceedings.

Both Sunday and Monday brought crowds from outside points. On Sunday the attraction was at the baseball grounds beyond the Zeila mine. There was a big crowd there, the gate receipts amounting to $194. This sum was under the direction of the base ball committee, and was not a part of the receipts of the celebration committee. Before the ball game an effort was made to have a chase after a greased pig. The animal was there all right and turned loose, but before it was aware of being crowned with liberty, it was taken into captivity. It had no chance to test its running powers. The lucky captor was Langdon, who was not more than two or three feet away when it was set free.

Ball game was between the Jackson regular team and a nine from Stockton. The line up was as follows, and practically the same for Monday's game also.

Stockton	p	Jackson
Martin	C Ardito
W Toy	1st b	Merkel
M Ladd	1st b	Cromer
C Wilbur	2d b	Portner
Wilbur	3rd b	Boro
Gillis	ss	Diabli
W Webber	if	Glasyon
J Russell	c f	Vela
J Brown	1 f	Connors
A Conella	c	Craft

The play was not as scientific as the game the Sunday previous with the Angels boys. The outcome was a victory for Jackson with a score of 9 to 5. Gigler umpired for Stockton and Stewart of Ione for Jackson.

In the evening the Masonic Home Boys Band and the Jackson Military Band gave a concert at each end of Main street.

Of course Monday was the main day. An immense crowd was attracted. There was never before seen such a throng as on that day. The affair had been advertised far and wide, and the outcome justified the expense. The festival was inaugurated by a salute at sunrise. The grand parade was a little late in starting. It got a move on about 10 o'clock starting from the north of Main street. It was very well gotten up, and was managed throughout with excellent judgment, under the marshaling of George Lucot assisted by Miss May Rose, and H. Laughton. It moved in the following order:

Military Band
Uniform Band K. of P
Float "Goddess of Liberty", personified by Miss Bertie Lucot
N. S. G. W
Float "Oro Fino Circle," Companions of Foresters
Ancient Order of Druids
Float, by the committee, carrying children representing every state in the Union, with Uncle Sam, in the center represented by Archie McCoy

N. D. G. W. with white parasols trimmed in golden yellow.

Order of Eagles

Float W. O. W.

Austrian and Italian Benevolent Societies

Masonic Home Band

Float of Knights of Pythias, loaded with members and officers of the order.

The private conveyances and floats were:

Acme Candy parlor float, a cart containing the one-year old child of Mr and Mrs McLaughlin of Electra, mounted on the large end of the horn of plenty.

Float of W. Scharder's grocery house Green and Ratto Union livery stable Vela and Piccardo, camp of 1909 Carriage containing officers of the day and speakers

The procession was the longest seen for many years, and the floats were artistically designed. There were over 250 in the line of march. After marching from the north bridge to Marre's hotel on Broadway and back, the line disbanded at the junction of Main and Water streets.

After the procession came the baseball game at Zeila park between Jackson and Stockton teams, which was again won by the locals, with a score of 7 to 4. In the afternoon the literary exercises took place on a platform erected for that purpose near the north Main street bridge. These were presided over by Judge Fred V. Wood, who made a brief and appropriate opening address.

The program was then adhered to as follows:

1. Prayer—Chaplin T. H. Nicholas.
2. Solo—Homer Henley.
3. Oration—Hon. W. R. Jacobs.
4. Trombone Solo—Emile LeMoin.
5. Reading—Declaration of Independence, Prof. F. A. Ball
6. Solo—Homer Henley
7. Selection—Masonic Home Band.

The oration of W. R. Jacobs was well received. It was interpered with comic anecdotes, and kept the attention of the audience from beginning to close. He complimented the people of Jackson for the way in which the celebration had been gotten up and conducted, and that the program had been faithfully carried out. He had never seen a finer display of decoration for a place of this size. It would be a credit to a city of much larger proportions.

At four o'clock the sporting events took place. These were on Main street, and kept things lively for the time being. The prizes and winners were:

100 yard race—1st prize, C. L. Severy, $7 50; second, $5, K Marchant 220 yd race—1st prize, $7 50, Severy; second, $5, Marchant.

120 yard hurdle race—1st prize, $10, K Lyman; second, $5, P Brown.

60 yard egg race for girls—1st prize, $5, Dorothy Heiser; second, $2 50, Jennie Poppiano.

Obstacle race—1st prize, 7 50, W Bastian; second, L Oneto, A Delama and Cuneo, $2 50 each.

Climbing greased pole, $5, won by W Bastian.

It was about six o'clock before the preparation for the big boxing contest on the dancing platform were completed. The boxers were Chas Sullivan of Denver and Tommy Feltz of Sacramen o, both well know members of the pugilistic fraternity. The tickets were $1 for general admission. The seats were pretty much all filled, there being some $250 present.

At first the contest was announced for ten rounds, but this was afterward changed to twenty rounds. The fight was rather a tame affair, and failed to come up to expectations. It was a hugging match from start to finish. At the close of the twenty round go, the fighters, although pretty well winded, exhibited few signs of having been in a mill. The contest was declared a draw. The gate receipts were nearly $200, one half of which went to the boxers.

At the dance in the evening the big platform was crowded with dancers and spectators. Bowers orchestra furnishing music. Dancing continued until 4 o'clock.

DECORATIONS.

The city was decorated more elaborately than ever attempted before. Bunting and flags were in evidence everywhere. Main street was fairly hid under the national colors. Many business houses were artistically and lavishly embellished. In addition to the individual efforts the fourth committee did a whole lot in this way. The electric display was something unprecedented. Red, white, and blue incandescent lamps were strung by hundreds through Main street. The flagstaff on top of the Court house was illuminated in this way clear to the top, and presented a strikingly pretty sight. The main bridges were decked out in gala attire likewise. Visitors from afar declared they never saw a finer effort for a city of this size, and were agreeably surprised.

Prizes were awarded as follows: Best decorated building, 1st, R. S. Pierce, of Comfort shoe store, $20. There was not a dissenting voice as to this award, it was a real piece of art work. 2nd prize, Wm. Tam's store, $10.

Best decorated float—1st, Oro Fino Circle, $25; 2d, Knights of Pythias, $15; 3d, Acme Candy float, $10.

The committee expects to come out with a balance on hand. Bills are not all in. With the platform lumber sold for a fair price, it is thought there will be a balance on hand of over $100.

THE CUCKOO.

Curious Superstitions That Are Connected With the Bird.

There is a popular belief that whatever one is doing when first one hears the cuckoo that will be what one will most frequently do during the year.

In many parts of Scotland and in the northern counties of England people turn their money in their pockets on hearing the first call of the cuckoo, as this, they say, insures a lucky year. In the counties bordering in Wales not only do they do this, but they also have a wish at the same time, this wish being kept secret, of course. To have a gold coin in one's pocket when the cuckoo's call is first heard insures good luck for the rest of the year. The German peasants declare that after St. John's day the bird changes into a sparrow hawk.

The Danes have a curious legend regarding this bird. When the village girls hear its first call they kiss their hands and repeat, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be married?" As many times as the bird calls "cuckoo" in answer, so many years will the maiden have to wait. The old folk, bent and bowed with rheumatism and age, ask instead, "Cuckoo, cuckoo, when shall I be released from this world's cares?" and the answer comes in the same way. So occupied is the poor bird in answering these questions, say the Danes, that she never has time to build her nest, so is forced to lay her eggs in the nest of another bird.—Planet.

A GREWSOME BEQUEST.

Extraordinary Legacy by the Father of Lord Audley.

Probably the most grewsome bequest ever named in a will was that made by Phillip Thicknesse, a dissipated Englishman, who died in 1792. Some years before his death he had quarreled bitterly with his son, Lord Audley, and to spite him had placed on the outside of the family mansion a board bearing this inscription in large black letters:

"Boots and shoes mended, carpets beat, etc., etc., by P. Thicknesse, father of Lord Audley."

Finding he was about to die, he sent for his lawyer and drew up a will containing the following extraordinary clause: "I leave my right hand, to be cut off after my death, to my son, Lord Audley. I desire it may be sent to him in hopes that such a sight may remind him of his duty to God after having so long abandoned the duty he owed to a father who once so affectionately loved him."

The dead man's wishes were scrupulously carried out, and his severed hand, inclosed in a hermetically sealed leaden casket, was forwarded to his son. There is no record as to how Lord Audley received his unwelcome legacy or how he disposed of it.—New York Press.

Beggars of Bombay.

The nuisance caused by beggars in Bombay has assumed unbearable proportions. The orientals practice charity as a religious obligation and relieve poverty where they find it. Recitals from Kabit and Marabal never fail to touch the innermost chords of the natives with their innate reverence for spiritualism, and the fakes backs up his appeal for alms with profuse quotations from the poets. Then there are lay beggars and religious beggars, the ash besmeared ascetics who practice mendicancy as a hereditary profession. Last and not least are the unfortunate sufferers whom the loss of limbs or eyes or some fell disease disables for work and drives them to beggary as the last resource. These latter have a genuine claim on our charity, but as there are so few asylums in India for the halt, the maim and the blind the streets and byways of towns are flooded with beggars, pitiful types of suffering humanity.—Rash Gaftar.

The Lace Curtain.

Just why there must be lace curtains even where there is no piano or rubber plant or gilt chair has never been explained to the entire satisfaction of man. He only knows that there must and lets it go at that. It often seems to him that if he could have his way, which is out of the question, of course, there wouldn't be lace curtains, at least above the cellar floor. They are in the way when windows are to be lowered or raised; they are apt to blow into the gas and burn down the house, and alarm is constantly sounded for fear the man will soil or tear them. They do not serve to keep out the light when there is too much of it, and the dog can't toast himself in the sun without getting tangled in them.

Still, there are lace curtains everywhere, and that is all there is to it.—Providence Tribune.

Suspension Bridges.

There is no doubt that the first idea of a suspension bridge was suggested to primitive man by the interlacing of tree branches and parasitical plants across rivers. Probably monkeys used them before men did. In very mountainous countries, such as Tibet and Peru, they have apparently been used since the dawn of history, possibly earlier.

Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Would Have Saved Him $100.00

"In 1902 I had a very severe attack of diarrhoea," says R. N. Farrar of Cat Island, La. "For several weeks I was unable to do anything. On March 18, 1907, I had a similar attack, and took Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which gave me prompt relief. I consider it one of the best medicines of its kind in the world, and had I used it in 1902 believe it would have saved me a hundred dollar doctor's bill. I sold by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, prop."

Life 100,000 Years Ago

Scientists have found in a cave in Switzerland bones of men, who lived 100,000 years ago, when life was in constant danger from wild beasts. To-day the danger, as shown by A. W. Brown of Alexander, Me., is largely from deadly disease. "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery, which cured me, I could not have lived," he writes, "suffering as I did from a severe lung trouble and stubborn cough." To cure sore lungs, colds, obstinate coughs, and prevent pneumonia, it's the best medicine on earth. 50c and $1. Guaranteed by Spagnoli's Drug Store. Trial bottle free.

He Got the Teacher.

A man called at a grammar school in a large city to see one of the teachers and, uncertain just which was the room he wanted, noted the bell buttons in the main corridor. He pressed one of them. His surprise was great when soon after the sound of the gong children and teachers fled forth from the various rooms, all in orderly line and with no excitement or crowding. The visitor had pressed the button which called for the fire alarm drill practice.

Useful to Flirts.

A young man called on a patent expert and showed him an idea he wanted protected. It was in the form of an engagement ring.

"But," said the expert, examining the "very ordinary looking circlet, "what is there patentable about this?"

"It is adjustable, sir," said the inventor proudly.—London Answer

Help for Those Who Have Stomach Trouble

After doctoring for about twelve years for a bad stomach trouble, and spending nearly five hundred dollars for medicine and doctors' fees, I purchased my wife one box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which did her so much good that she continued to use them and they have done her more good than all of the medicine I bought before.—Samuel Boyer, Folsom, Iowa. This medicine is for sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, Prop. Samples free.

Building Up a Speech.

Before making a speech Charles Dickens would decide on his various heads and then in his mind's eye liken the whole subject to the tire of a cart wheel, he being the hub. From the hub to the tire he would run as many spokes as there were subjects to be treated, and during the progress of the speech he would deal with each spoke separately, elaborating them as he went round the wheel, and when all the spokes dropped out one by one and nothing but the tire and space remained he would know that he had accomplished his task and that his speech was at an end.

Tortured on a Horse

"For ten years I couldn't ride a horse without being in torture from piles," writes L. S. Napire, of Rutgers, Ky. "When all doctors and other remedies failed, Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured me." Infalible for piles, burns, scalds, cuts, boils, fever-sores, eczema, salt rheum, corns. 25c. Guaranteed by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, prop.

Delaware's Circular Boundary.

The northern boundary line of Delaware is circular because the charter given to Penn states that Pennsylvania was to be "bounded on the east by the Delaware river from twelve miles distant north of Newcastle town until the three and fortieth degree of north latitude" and that the southern boundary was to be "a circle drawn at twelve miles distant from the town of Newcastle northward and westward until the fortieth degree of north latitude and then by a straight line westward." This makes a circular boundary for northern Delaware unavoidable, and the facts above set forth explain a geographical curiosity that has puzzled many students.

Boy's Life Saved

My little boy, four years old, had a severe attack of dysentery. We had two physicians; both of them gave him up. We then gave him Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy which cured him and believe that saved his life.—William H. Strolling, Carbon Hill, Ala. There is no doubt but this remedy saves the lives of many children each year. Give it with castor oil according to the plain printed directions and a cure is certain. For sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, prop.

Domestic Economy.

"Yes, ma'am."

"Well, you tell him that unless he gives us better weight than he has been doing we shall get our coal elsewhere."—London Illustrated Bits.

Within Her Means.

A pretty little girl of three years was in a drug store with her mother. Being attracted by something in the showcase, she asked what it was. The clerk replied, "That is a scent bag."

ROYAL MAIDS.

When They Wish to Marry They Must Do the Proposing.

When a reigning queen is to be married she must be the one to broach the subject first to her future consort. The same rule holds good with regard to all royal ladies who marry commoners.

The late Queen Victoria has told how she managed to "put the question" to Prince Albert—how she first showed him Windsor and its beauties and the distant landscape and then said, "All this may be yours." The queen of Holland on a like occasion simply sent a sprig of white heather, begging Prince Henry to look out its meaning in a book of flowers and their meanings. The Duchess of Argyll took the following means of proposing to the Marquis of Lorne: She was about to attend a state ball and gave it out that she would choose as her partner for the first dance the man she intended to honor. She selected the marquis, who subsequently became her husband.

But perhaps the most interesting of all ways chosen was that of the Duchess of Fife. She took the earl, as he then was, to a drawer and showed him its contents. There he saw a number of trifles he had given her at different times, including sprigs of several kinds of flowers, now dead, he had picked for her at various times. He was much impressed at the sight, nor did it require words on her part to make her meaning plain.—London Answers.

ADENOIDS.

The Way These Growths Endanger the Health of Children.

Adenoids are curious little cauliflower-like growths which appear at the junction of the nasal cavity and the pharynx. They are often observed at birth, but they seldom cause discomfort until some months later. Then they interfere with respiration and cause the baby to be restless. It tosses in its sleep and wakens suddenly, crying out as if in distress.

If adenoids are permitted to remain they deform the mouth, teeth, throat, chest and face. At their worst they produce pop eyes and what is called a frog face. They cause mouth breathing, with all its attendant evils. They open the way for a hundred and one ills, from rupture of the eardrum, running from the ears, coughs and tonsillitis to pulmonary tuberculosis.

A slight operation suffices to remove them. The baby suffers little pain and loses little blood. Out they come, and with them the overgrown tonsils that commonly accompany them. If they are suffered to remain they may never be discovered. But it is certain that in one way or another, directly or indirectly, they will cause damage.—Dr. Leonard Keene Hirschberg in Delineator.

Yarmouth's Narrow Street.

Kitty Witches row, Great Yarmouth, can justly claim to be the narrowest street in the world, the entrance at one end being only twenty-nine inches and at the other fifty-six inches. It gives some idea of the width when one mentions that neighbors can shake hands and put out each other's candles across the street! Why these rows have been so constructed has given rise to a good deal of discussion. Some writers give the reason that when there was a very high tide the water might flow through them; others, in the event of an invasion they would prove an excellent means of defense or that the ground plans of the rows were suggested by the fishermen's nets, which, spread on the dunes to dry, had a narrow pathway left between them, which represented the rows. Yarmouth has 145 rows, and their total length exceeds seven miles, Kitty Witches being the most interesting and the narrowest of all.

How Faraday Refused a Pension.

Lord Melbourne once announced to Faraday that it was his pleasing duty to offer him a pension, but, he added, "I suppose all this science is humbug." Faraday at once replied, "If that is your opinion, my lord, I decline the pension," and retired. Melbourne, on meeting some of his colleagues, said: "I have had a strange thing happen. A man has declined a pension." But these gentlemen knew Faraday's position and reputation better than the premier and urged him to rectify the blunder. Faraday was again interviewed, but Melbourne was obliged to retract and apologize before the pension was accepted.

SCIENTIFIC MISCELLANY

Reported weekly for the Ledger.

Helping out the Underworked Windmill - Improved Peat - A Strange Light-Motor Plowing - Toy Dew Ponds - Better Roots for Plants - Library Disinfection - Boring Holes at Long Range.

The Malcomess multiplicator is a novel and ingenious South African invention for increasing the water pumped by a windmill. It consists of two toothed pinions, carried in a bracket attached to the connecting rod of the windmill, and moving up and down on toothed racks, of which the center one is attached to the pump rod, while the side racks are fastened with the main frame of the apparatus to the standpipe. By this arrangement the pump rod is made to travel twice the distance of the windmill connecting rod. In many cases—often in pumping from bore-holes of six inches or less in diameter—the attachment does not diminish the number of strokes of the windmill, and the doubling of the length of stroke doubles the pumping capacity.

The wet carbonized peat of Dr. M. Ekener, as brought to the notice of the British Iron and Steel Institute, seems to be a practical solution of the problem of removing the water from raw peat by a less uncertain process than air-drying. The failure to remove the water by mechanical pressure proves to be due to the presence of a small proportion of a slimy hydrocellulose from decayed plants, and the discovery that this substance can be destroyed by heating is the basis of the new process. The pulped raw peat is pumped through tubes heated to 200 deg. C., and carbonized in the presence of superheated water. The water is afterward pressed out by a compression of 50 atmospheres. The resulting cakes have one-fourteenth to one-seventeenth of the water raw peat—or about the same as air-dried peat—and can be used direct in a gas producer or further dried in a lignite-briquetting plant. They promise cheap and efficient fuel for electric generation or other purposes.

A curious and remarkable purple-blue glow has been observed by Rev. H. V. Gill in a vacuum tube in which a strip of palladium foil is heated by the electric current. It seems to be a result of some reaction between the gases of the tube and the disintegrated palladium.

The gasoline-motor plow of the gas motor works of Deutz, near Cologne, is designed to take the place of the steam plow, and is claimed to be an important advance in agricultural machinery. Though gasoline is more costly than coal, the fuel expense for plowing by the new method proves to be about the same as by the old. Steam plows are drawn back and forth by a strong rope between two heavy locomotives, but the single gasoline locomotive travels to and fro across the field, pulling one of its two multiple blade plows at each trip. Being reversible, with an equal pull in each direction, the locomotive avoids the trouble of turning around, a single turn of the wheels giving the shift through the plowing width. From 12 to 22 acres can be plowed in twelve hours, and the driver does this with only occasional assistance from another man, while the steam plow requires the constant services of five men. Having only a fifth of the weight of the steam plow, the new machine needs no special permit for traveling on ordinary roads and bridges.

The so-called "dew ponds" on hill tops in southern England still continue to be a perplexing scientific puzzle. It has been suggested that these artificial basins, with bottoms of straw covered with a layer of pebbles, strewn clay, keep the ground beneath abnormally cool, and cause much dew to be deposited at night, while preventing it from entirely evaporating by day. This theory, probably the best yet offered, does not meet with general approval. Proof of the interest aroused is found in the fact that a British firm has begun making miniature dew ponds and rain ponds, which appear to consist essentially of one shallow metal tray inverted within another, and it is asserted that these, when placed in a garden or other open space, keep filled in the driest summer. The makers explain that the dew collected on the cover is kept from evaporation in the reservoir beneath. The moisture does not all collect on top, however, and an experiment of six weeks has shown free condensation on the under side of the cover.

Grafting alfalfa roots on roots of the strawberry vine is the method by which an Oregon rancher claims to have produced three crops of berries in a season. The long alfalfa roots reach the moisture in the soil even in the driest summer.

The disinfection of books is attempted only in a small way. When libraries find that books have been exposed to contagion, the suspected volumes are destroyed or treated with formaldehyde, but regular and complete disinfection has been too expensive and uncertain to be considered in large libraries. A member of the Paris Municipal Council, M. Marsoulan, now claims to have devised a simple process for the wholesome sterilizing at intervals of books that are much circulated. The first part of the process is a vacuum cleaning, and the apparatus—called the beater—comprises a frame to which many books are fixed at once, with a powerful ventilating fan that forces the leaves open in succession, and a pump that carries the released dust to a tank of carbolic acid solution. The second apparatus is known as the "cell." It is a skeleton cage of metal in several tiers, on which the opened volumes are held by clips, and which, when loaded, is pushed on rails into an oven heated to 167 F. In a short time the germs are practically all destroyed, without damage to the books.

In cold weather the escape of air from closed warm rooms, through the porosity of walls and the leakage around doors and windows, is much greater than is usually supposed. In some experiments by Arthur D. Little of Boston, the closed room of 615 cubic feet was in the second story of an ordinary clapboarded frame dwelling, and the interior walls and ceilings were plastered and papered, the single window made as tight as possible by putty, and the inner door was fitted with weather strips. Even in this room, natural causes made almost two complete changes of air an hour, as shown by tests of the carbonic acid. It would be interesting to know how the rate changes with the differences between outside and inside temperature, and what difference gives an ordinary "tight" family living room safe ventilation.

A novel machine lately patented is designed for boring in ceilings and overhead beams. It is supported on a staff with a foot resting on the floor and the height can be adjusted so as to bring the boring tool against the ceiling or beam. By a hand crank the operator bores the holes without climbing.

A Most Valuable Agent.

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which it extracts from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and antiferment. It adds greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry-bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Stone root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in subduing chronic, or lingering coughs, bronchitis, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities.

In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stages of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable nutritive and aids the Golden Seal root, Stone root, Queen's root and Black Cherry-bark in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it must not be expected to work miracles. It will not cure consumption except in its earlier stages. It will cure various chronic, chest, and lung troubles, and chronic sore throat with hoarseness. In acute coughs it is not so effective. It is in the lingering hang-on coughs, or those of long standing, even when accompanied by bleeding from lungs, that it has performed its most marvelous cures.

Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Med. College, Chicago, says of glycerine:

"In dyspepsia it serves an excellent purpose. Holding a fixed quantity of the peroxide of hydrogen in solution, it is one of the best manufactured products of the present time in its action upon enfeebled, disordered stomachs, especially if there is ulceration or catarrhal gastritis (catarrhal inflammation of stomach). It is a most efficient preparation. Glycerine will relieve many cases of pyrosis (heartburn) and excessive gastric (stomach) acidity."

"Golden Medical Discovery" enriches and purifies the blood, curing blotches, pimples, eruptions, scrofulous swellings and old sores, or ulcers.

Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., for free booklet telling all about the native medicinal roots composing this wonderful medicine. There is no alcohol in it.

Constipation causes headache, nausea, dizziness, languor, heart palpitation. Drastic physics gripe, sicken, weaken the bowels and don't cure. Doan's Regulents act gently and cure constipation. 25 cents. Ask your druggist.

He Dazed Lew Wallace.

Shortly after the first success of "Ben-Hur" Lew Wallace had occasion to go over to London and one day picked up a pirated copy of the novel at a railroad newsstand. To his amazement he found the subtitle left off, a preface interpolated and one of the chapters rewritten. Of course he bolted with rage, and as soon as possible he called on the publisher. That gentleman coolly admitted his crime and told Wallace he thought the amended form better adapted to the British taste, don't know. His gall was so stupendous that the novelists was awed and went away without spilling his gore.

It Was Good Advice.

A wildly turbulent peasant was once a witness in a trial before Chief Baron O'Grady. The counsel, after posturing him for some time, put a question to him which reflected on the witness' character.

"If ye as me that again I'll give ye a kick in the gob?" was the answer.

The counsel appealed to the court, stating that an answer was necessary to his client's case, ending up with the query, "What would your lordship advise me to do?"

"If you are resolved to repeat the question," replied the court, "I'd advise you to move a little from the witness."

The Poulitice Is a Barbaric Relic.

The poulitice is a barbarous relic of the days of witch burning. The typical home poulitice is made of flaxseed. It is a soggy, unsavory, germ infested instrument of torture. Clapped upon the suffering baby's chest, it interferes with the poor child's breathing, infects his skin with the germs that cause pimples and boils and makes him unbearably uncomfortable and unhappy. The heat in the poulitice is its only valuable feature. The dampness does damage, and the flaxseed is as inert as so much sawdust or breakfast food. Why not use hot water bags or, better still, hot cloths?—Delineator

LEDGER'S BIG VOTING CONTEST

Grand Piano and 6 Free Trips to Successful Candidates

$800 to be Given Away

This morning the Ledger makes the first public announcement of some of the ladies who will be numbered among the contestants who will try for the $800, in prizes to be awarded by this paper, for energy and enterprise in securing votes.

These were the nominations secured up to yesterday. The number of votes each one has will be published in next week's issue, and every week thereafter until the close of the contest.

A number of the contestants have already secured more than the 5000 votes the nomination entitles them to. The list shows a few from each district. It is expected, however, that as many have been nominated by their friends who have not consulted with the ladies first, a few will not try for the prizes, even though their names are in the list; then, again, other nominations will be received up to the last of the contest.

SEE THE CONTEST MANAGER.

Some of those who have entered their names have visited the contest manager, and have had the advantage of a personal interview with him. All of these understand the contest proposition thoroughly, and are ready to try for votes with a perfect conception of what they must do to win.

Those ladies who have been nominated by their friends have not as yet been personally interviewed, and naturally they are not as conversant with the conditions of the contest, and the work to be done as the others.

NOW IS THE TIME.

Make a start and get votes, or promises of votes which will be filled later on. Make up your mind right now that you are going to be one of the lucky ones, and strive to attain that end. Do not wait until the last week, but start out now, and not only get votes from your friends, but induce them to have others to save their votes for you also.

All the candidates should understand that votes can be obtained in only two ways. First by coupons. In each issue of the paper, beginning with this issue there will be a vote coupon published, good for ten votes each when properly filled out and sent to this office, a good many thousand of votes can be secured in this way, get out among your friends and collect them up. The bulk of the votes secured by the contestants must of course, be by subscriptions.

Each paid subscription, whether old or new, in advance, or in arrears, will entitle the subscriber to votes; the longer the subscription the more votes will be given, and more votes are given for new subscriptions than old.

BE DETERMINED.

Determination is one of the esential points in every venture, providing success is the standard for which you are striving. Lacking that quality, your success will be limited unless some one else does the work and you receive the credit. Be determined and do not, simply because another met with more success than you, stand back and acknowledge defeat, but renew your energies, couple with them ambition and make the gold yourself.

Right now is the time, the business ability and tact you will acquire in going through a contest of this character will be of essential value to you in after life and fit you for almost any undertaking wherein these qualities are needed. The hardest part of anything in the start, and after that is made the rest is easy. So get the start now and stick with it until you are successful.

GRAND CAPITAL PRIZE

First as a grand capital prize, is a superb Kimball piano valued at $500 and purchased from the firm of Eiler's Music Co., the largest dealers in pianos and organs on the Pacific coast.

The Kimball is an instrument of ideal qualities, and is a favorite with musicians all over the country. It has an exceedingly full, round tone, and the case is designed along the lines of refined elegance.

This piano will be awarded to the candidate who has the highest number of votes, regardless of districts.

The contestant winning the piano cannot participate in the distribution of any of the trips, the contestant standing next to her will be entitled to the first district trip and the one standing the next highest will be entitled to the second district prize.

This provision is made so that a candidate cannot win more than one prize.

DISTRICT PRIZES.

To the candidates standing highest in the different districts after the grand prize has been awarded there will be awarded trips to the Portola Celebration in San Francisco for one week.

This trip will be made without expense to the winners. The Ledger shouldering all the expense.

One of the greatest celebrations in the history of California will take place during Portola week. Preparations have been under way for months and even now things are just beginning to take shape. War-ships representing every nation on earth will take part in this unique celebration, monster parades representing every phase of California history will be held every day and night of the week. Monster mask balls and confetti battles will be in progress at all times of day or night, and it is safe to assume that the ladies who take this trip at the expense of the Ledger will have the time of their lives. And the beauty of it all is that some one else will pay the bills, and all that it is necessary for them to do is to enjoy themselves to the fullest extent.

Those of the candidates who stand highest in the different districts after the Portola trips have been awarded will be given a weeks stay at beautiful Santa Cruz, where this beautiful city will be open to you and where one always returns after the first visit. Every lady knows the value of these trips especially in the month of August.

These prizes are all well worth putting forth great efforts to win, and it is a certainty that there will be something doing among candidates and their friends from the moment the announcement of candidates is made, which will be in the next issue of this paper.

Over Thirty-Five Years

In 1872 there was a great deal of diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum. It was at this time that Chamberlain's colic, cholera and diarrhoea remedy was first brought into use. It proved more successful than any other remedy or treatment, and has for thirty-five years maintained that record. From a small beginning its sale and use has extended to every part of the United States and to many foreign countries. Nine druggists out of ten will recommend it when their opinion is asked, although they have other medicines that pay them greater profit. It can always be depended upon, even in the most severe and dangerous cases. For sale by Jackson Drug Store, Spagnoli, prop.
